PATRICK FLAHERTY DO, FACC INTERVENTIONAL CARDIOLOGY

Dr. Patrick Joseph Flaherty is an interventional cardiologist, board-certified in cardiovascular medicine. Described as personable and attentive by his patients, Dr. Flaherty is committed to providing patient-centered care. His interests involve all aspects of diagnostic and interventional cardiology, including coronary and peripheral angiography/intervention, nuclear cardiology, echocardiography and CT angiography.

Dr. Flaherty served three years as a staff cardiologist at Tripler Army Medical Center in Honolulu, where he was director of cardiology education for the internal medicine residency program. He completed a fellowship in cardiovascular medicine at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C. and a residency in internal medicine at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio. Prior to graduating from the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine, he received a bachelor's degree from Miami University.

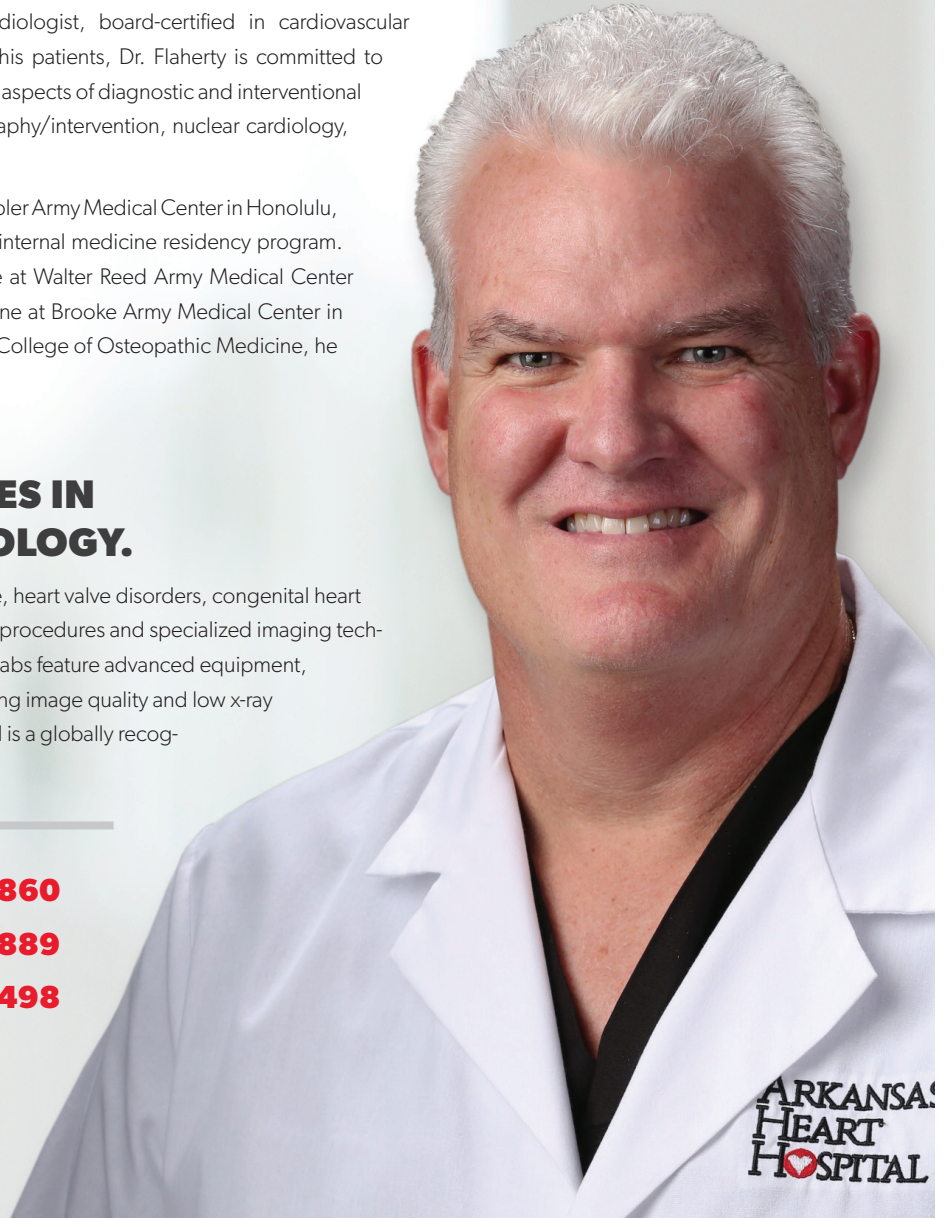

DR. FLAHERTY SPECIALIZES IN INTERVENTIONAL CARDIOLOGY.

Interventional cardiologists treat coronary artery disease, heart valve disorders, congenital heart disease and more through nonsurgical, catheter-based procedures and specialized imaging techniques. Arkansas Heart Hospital's eight catheterization labs feature advanced equipment, known throughout the healthcare industry for outstanding image quality and low x-ray radiation dose to both the patient and staff. The hospital is a globally recognized cardiac training center.
